Company history/background

We are offering our Low-Code ecosystem for sale. The ecosystem provides companies with the opportunity to build and design apps using a revolutionary Low-Code approach without requiring deep technical expertise. Companies can utilize the Low-Code system as a White Label solution, allowing them to create customized apps tailored to their specific needs. The system also enables users to collaborate, allowing them not only to track progress but also to engage in discussions. Unfortunately, the team is unable to continue advancing the project along the technical roadmap as other projects have taken precedence and a funding round (with 70% soft-commitment) has failed. A total investment of nearly €400,000, mostly self-funded, has been made into the project. Therefore, we are now seeking a buyer who is interested in further developing the platform and recognizes its potential.

We offer the opportunity to invest in an innovative platform that has been supported by the Exist start-up grant with approximately €130,000. With successful sales revenues of around €35,000, we have already achieved initial successes. Our pilot customers include both large corporations and various SMEs. We are seeking investors who are interested in acquiring and further developing the entire company to fully leverage the platform's potential. Seize this opportunity to invest in a dynamic company with significant growth potential and benefit from our past success.

Unique selling points

Our company offers a unique all-in-one low-code platform that is based on AI-powered workflow predictions. With our platform, businesses can create their own digital ecosystem and unlock the full potential of application development and utilization. We excel in our process of reusing existing solutions, which contributes to more efficient application development. Additionally, we provide flexibility and cost savings for our customers, as our hosting is compatible with any provider. Overall, we are an attractive investment opportunity for those looking to invest in a leading low-code platform with AI support and an excellent solution reuse process.

Other

Our platform is offered for a purchase price of €200,000. We are seeking a buyer who is willing to further develop the platform and capitalize on specific synergies. We are open to various forms of participation but aim to transfer a majority of the shares. We are also willing to consider different financing models and provide ongoing support if needed. We firmly believe that our offer presents an attractive opportunity for investors looking to invest in a platform with growth potential.
